SET HIS WEDDING TO MUSIC

Marriage of Herman C. Rakeman and Miss Sophie Eleanor Brock.

Two Hundred Presents for the Bride. Nuptials of Miss Hope Per Lee and Rev. Mason C. Stryker.

The marriage of Miss Sophie Eleanor Brock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brock, to Mr. Herman C. Rakeman, the well known musician and composer, was the event of last evening, not only among the immediate circle of their friends, but to all to whom the groom's came is familiar, because of his musical ability.

The ceremony took place at the Church of the Reformation on Second and B streets southeast, at 7:30 o'clock. The church was elaborately decorated with white carnations and palms, as it was in the matter of decorations throughout both at the church and house, a carnation wedding. At the rear of the pulpit the archway was hung with a curiain of asparagus vines, the graceful effect of which was supplemented by the setting of numerous large

The great feature of the wedding service was the wedding march, which had been compared especially for the occasion by the groom and was rendered in a pasterly manner by Prof. John Porter Lawrence.

manner by Prof. John Porter Lawrence.
The opening bars of this wedding march will be inscribed by the groom upon a anguificently inlaid table presented the bride by her aunt, Miss Brenner. This able is of rose-wood inlaid with satin wood in an elaborately graceful design of musical struments grouped about an open music sek. It is upon the leaves of this include book that Mr. Enkeman will inscribe the book that Mr. Rakeman will inscribe the opening bars of the wedding march, which he considers one of the best of his compo-sitions, and which will always have for him an especial attraction on account of the lappy event for which it was composed. The clurch was crowded to its utmost The church was crowded to its utmost capacity when the bridal party entered The four ushers, Mr. Carl Brock, brother of the trade; Mr. Carl Brock, brother of the groom; Mr. Artie Sutherland, and Mr. Theodore Graff, advanced in the lead of the groomemen and bridesmaides, who walked in couples The groomsmen were Mr. E. H. Droep, Mr. Heary Reynolds Kondrup, and Mr. Henry Xander.

The bridesmails were Misses Antoinette and Amelia Britemani, siters of the groom, and Miss Clara Uke. Their gowns were of white silk brotade, and the bouques carried were of pink roses. The bride's sister, Miss Emma Brock, preceded ber as maid of homor in a gown-of white silk brocade and carried pink roses.
